

EVERYONE DESERVES TO FEEL SAFE AND RESPECTED AT WORK

Union members were there at the first Mardi Gras. And union members are here now.

Unions believe in dignity and equality for all, at work and in the community. Discrimination against LGBTQIA+ people outside the workplace is as unacceptable as discrimination in the workplace.

Being union is about sticking up for each other and using our collective power to build genuinely queer-friendly workplaces.

Sometimes taking action can be taking to the streets en masse. But it can also be laying the groundwork in our own workplaces through our unions – whether that be respecting pronouns or working to introduce new conditions that make our workplaces more inclusive.

As union members, our actions are never for the advancement of the individual alone. That's why we act together to benefit everyone.
